Three renditions

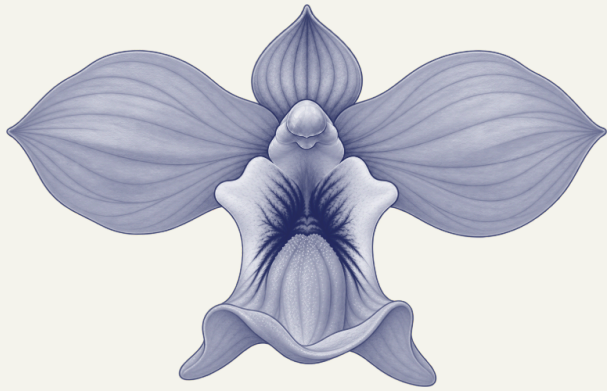

The emblem is trimmed to its bounding box, so the petal tips define the mark's edges. It exists in three renditions: the supplied full-colour illustration, a neutral greyscale for single-colour reproduction, and a duotone inked in a colour drawn from the illustration's own complements.

Greyscale

One neutral rendition serves every ink — the six duotones sit within a few points of each other in luminance, so their conversions are indistinguishable. Use for newsprint, engraving, stamps and single-colour merchandise. On sage the drawing reverses to a lighter grey so it holds its weight.

Six inks

Each ink is the complement of a hue measured in the illustration: yellow 60°, amber 40°, magenta 340°, olive 80°, warm 20°, green 90°. The drawing takes the deep tone, the ground a near-white tint of the same hue.

The six inks on sage

The pale duotone ground reads as a soft highlight against deep sage, which is what gives the mark its printed quality.

FAVICON

The emblem stands alone only where the wordmark cannot follow — avatars, app icons, favicons, wax-stamp treatments. Everywhere else it appears locked to the name.

Wordmark specification

Unchanged from the current identity. Sizes are expressed against the emblem height so the lockup scales as one object.

Use and misuse

SA Orchid Council

MAKING A DIFFERENCE SINCE 1968

Set the lockup as a single object at the specified proportions, on parchment, bone or sage.

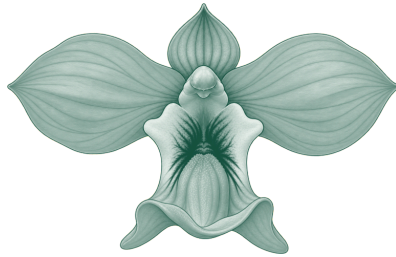

SA Orchid Council

MAKING A DIFFERENCE SINCE 1968

Do not re-space the gap, letter-space the wordmark, or shrink the emblem against the type.

DO

SA Orchid Council

MAKING A DIFFERENCE SINCE 1968

Keep the vertical lockup's emblem flush to the wordmark width.

DON'T

SA Orchid Council

Do not float a small emblem above the name. It breaks the lockup.
